UNC's First-Year Scholars Honored

The University of Northern Colorado honored a group of outstanding freshmen Sunday, Feb. 22, 2009, at its annual UNC First-Year Scholars reception.

_____ of _____ was
(student's name) (hometown)

named one of UNC's First-Year Scholars.

This honor recognizes the achievements of UNC freshmen who have at least a 3.5 grade-point average Fall semester.

"Students' success during the first semester of college sets the tone for future successes," said Assistant Dean of Students Rachel King. "It is important to recognize young scholars and hold them up as examples for the rest of campus."

The reception is an annual event hosted by the Dean of Students Office and Residence Life.
