International Student eligibility:

International students can attend UNC Extended Campus programs. In order to be issued an F1 visa to come to the states, U.S. immigration requires that international graduate students be in the classroom setting (not attending online) for 6 out of 9 credits each term for which they attend courses in the U.S.

In some countries, the scholarships and government support available to you for U.S. education may have additional restrictions on how many credits you can take online and count towards your degree program. If you have a sponsor for your U.S. educational experience, please check with them when applying to a program that has a portion of the courses offered only online. Some also have restrictions on the area of study you choose.

Applicants must demonstrate English proficiency in order to be considered. Possible ways to demonstrate proficiency:

Qualifying test scores: TOEFL: 80, IELTS: 7.0, PTE-A: 54

Completion of a degree in the U.S., or from an English speaking country (parts of Europe, Canada), within the last two years.
If you do not meet the minimum language proficiency scores, you will be required to complete Center for International Education academic English courses on campus in Greeley.

International Student additional application materials to prepare:

All international (non-U.S. citizen) applicants should choose International Admissions and then Graduate Students at the beginning of the graduate application process. In addition to any application steps listed above, you will also need to prepare the following for your application:

- Demonstration of Language proficiency – TOEFL, IELTS, PTE-A, or petition for exemption
- Copy of passport bio page
- Financial Documentation – we will need to verify that you can financially cover the estimated costs (tuition, fees, room, board, insurance, books, supplies, travel) of the time you will be in the U.S. Those applying to programs that last longer than 1 year will only need to provide proof for the first year at the time of application.

For more information about UNC International Admissions and the UNC Center for International Education, please visit the International Admissions site, email grad.school@unco.edu, or call 970-351-2831

Information from Housing and Residential Education at UNC:
What are the living and dining options for graduate students?

Upperclassmen students are allowed to live in any hall on campus, however, there are several options available specifically for those students who are at least 20 years old or have more than 20 semester credit hours completed including:

- Lawrenson Hall - This residence hall houses 438 students from many different nationalities in furnished and air-conditioned units on West campus.

- University Apartments - For upperclassmen students, these apartments are located just 3 blocks east of Central Campus. This complex has 98 furnished and unfurnished two-bedroom apartments.

- University Owned Houses - For upperclassmen students there are several single-gender and co-ed houses located within one block of either Central or West campus that house a range of 5-12 students per house. For additional information and to check on availability, please contact the Assignment Coordinator at 970-351-2721.

- Arlington Park Apartments - managed by Allen & O'Hara Education Services, Inc. in partnership with the University of Northern Colorado, this facility is located just 2 blocks from West campus and offers a variety of floor plans for upperclassmen students.

Dining options for upperclassmen include a 17-Meal Plan, 15-Meal Plan, 14-Meal Plan, or the new 175 Meal Bear Plan, the 200 Meal Plan as well as the traditional 19-Meal Plan. There are additional Bear Plan options for those students living in Lawrenson Hall, a University Owned House, or Arlington Park Apartments. Please call the Dining Services office at 970-351-2652 or visit their webpage for additional information.
