The UNC Difference

At UNC, you'll find the best of a small, teaching-focused institution combined with the progressive knowledge of a large, research-based university.

Our just-right size, combined with our commitment to innovative instruction, is what sets us apart.

We don't make our faculty choose between teaching and research because we know that a far greater learning experience rises from the combination of both. At UNC, you'll work side-by-side with experts in your field. They'll know you by name. And they'll connect you with opportunities along the path you want to follow.
