

Appointment of an Interim President for the University of Northern Colorado

RECOMMENDATION

It is recommended that the Board of Trustees approve the appointment of an Interim President for the University of Northern Colorado to provide executive leadership during the transition period of searching for a new President.

BACKGROUND

The appointment of an Interim President is necessary to ensure continuity of leadership and operational stability during a period of presidential transition at the University of Northern Colorado. The Interim President will assume the responsibilities of the chief executive officer, supporting the university's academic mission, strategic priorities, and day-to-day operations while the Board undertakes the process of selecting a permanent president. This action enables the institution to maintain effective governance, preserve momentum on key initiatives, and provide clear leadership to students, faculty, staff, and external stakeholders during the transition.
