

UNIVERSITY OF NORTHERN COLORADO FUTURE TEACHER CONFERENCE

SAVE THE DATE: FEBRUARY 5, 2027

WANT TO INSPIRE THE NEXT GENERATION OF TEACHERS?

The College of Education and Behavioral Sciences at University of Northern Colorado invites you and your students to attend the 12th annual UNC Future Teacher Conference. This free conference is designed to help aspiring teachers learn more about the field, connect with peers and gather insights from Colorado's leader in teacher education. The conference will feature presentations and workshops facilitated by preservice teachers (current UNC students), early career teachers, veteran educators and UNC faculty/administrators.

This conference is designed for anyone exploring or pursuing a career in teaching — and those who support them!

Perfect for:

- High school students considering education as a major
- Community college students planning their next step
- College transfer students interested in teacher preparation programs

Plus:

We offer a special session for teachers and parents who want to learn how to guide and inspire the next generation of educators.

The event offers resources for students interested in:

- Early childhood education
- Elementary education
- Secondary education
- Special education
- Culturally and Linguistically Diverse Education
- K-12 Education: Art, Music, Physical Education, and Theatre
- Secondary Education: Social Studies, English, Science, and Family and Consumer Sciences
- Educational technology
- Parent seminar
- And more!

Win one of two $1,000 UNC scholarships to be awarded to attendees who are eligible to enroll at UNC in the fall of 2027
