Counseling Psychology Doctoral Program Fall 2018 Newsletter

This introduction to the newsletter is being written after Thanksgiving week and a week before finals. We have a lot to be grateful for, and it is also time to be thinking of others. Our thoughts and best wishes to those impacted by the fires in Southern California. Also, to those impacted by the mass shootings which have now become an almost every day occurrence.

This newsletter is full of events from the doctoral life cycle: Welcoming the new cohort, best wishes for those on internship and external practicum, congratulations and best wishes for recent graduates, and lots of pride for those who presented at the APA national convention and other international conferences. The productivity of research-based projects presented and published since last May is impressive.

Dr. Lu Tian developed the DiversiWe series which focuses on multicultural counseling skills training through panel discussion, video demonstration, and role plays. The series has been delivered for three semesters and has served 252 attendees (across all APCE programs). Topics related to counseling diverse populations included African Americans, Asian Americans, Latina/o clients, LGB and other sexual minority clients, low-SES clients, clients involved in the justice system, and first-generation college students. We are very thankful to Dr. Lu Tian for having brought such positive energy on multicultural training to our department.

Welcome to Dr. Rings as the new Clinic Director for the Psychological Services Clinic, our onsite training clinic. Dr. Jeff Rings follows Dr. Brian Johnson as the Clinic Director for three years who is currently on a sabbatical leave, and Dr. Sean O'Halloran for twenty years.

The Counseling Psychology Student Organization continues providing opportunities for our students to have speakers, informal meetings about comps and external practicum, and social events. To the CP students and SAS applicants, we want to acknowledge what an amazing job it was to put together an excellent proposal for the student affiliates of Division 17. Best wishes that you are selected!

We are always happy to receive your news in whatever stage of the doctoral life cycle you are, whether you are just starting or you are an alumni, please let us know of your personal and professional accomplishments and events. We definitely like to hear from you!

Good luck with finals and happy holidays!

Counseling Psychology Student Organization

Hello students! Congratulations on making it through yet another semester of school. This has been a full semester for everyone, including CPSO. Your CPSO Board has been working hard to get our organization to achieve UNC's new Recognized Student Organization (RSO) status. By becoming an RSO, we now have many new opportunities, including requesting financial assistance to host events open to all students, use of University facilities and services at a discounted rate, free graphic design services, and free access to technological and other fun equipment for events.

This semester the CPSO Board has hosted several traditional events and tried out some new ones. In September, we held the Annual CP Potluck where CP students in all cohorts had the opportunity to mix and mingle with each other, as well as our wonderful professors. We also had a New Student Information event in which students new to the CP program could get all of their questions asked and answered by other students who have walked in their shoes. Our most recent event was the informal Written Comps meeting. CP students who are recent veterans of written comps and those who are prepping to take them gathered together to discuss and process the experience. Through these CPSO events, we are working to foster a stronger sense of community and support among CP students.

In prepping for the Spring 2019 semester, the CPSO Board is working on several opportunities to continue building up our students, both personally and professionally. We plan to have speakers, informal meetings about oral comps and external practicum, fundraisers, and social events. Your CPSO Board is always open for input and ideas for future events, and we invite you all to reach out personally to your board members or attend the board meetings! Your CPSO Board is always here to support you however we can!

Best of luck to those prepping for their comprehensive exams and dissertation proposals, and working hard on dissertation projects/defenses, internship applications, and everything else that comes with being a CP student. YOU CAN DO THIS!

Your CPSO Board,

Callie King, President

Erin McEvoy, Vice President

Emili Pickenpaugh, Secretary

Tiana Johnson, Social Chair

Hunter Edwards, Treasurer

Thank you to the DiversiWe team for providing resources that allow our students to expand their cultural competency!

The team:
 Dr. Lu Tian
 Natalie Sachs
 Adam Chao
 McKayla Gorman
 Gurusewak Khalsa

DiversiWe was created to provide multicultural counseling skill development for counseling students at UNC. Over the last two semesters the DiversiWe team, headed by Dr. Lu Tian, has designed and implemented bimonthly training workshops held on campus at McKee Hall.

Workshops have focused on counseling clients with diverse identities, including sexual minority, African American, Asian American, and Latina/o clients. Training activities have consisted of panel discussions with members of the client population, professional videos of counseling sessions with clients from diverse backgrounds, and role-plays amongst training attendees.

Fall semester focused on issues related to counseling clients with low socio-economic status, including clients involved in the justice system and clients who are first-generation college students. Spring semester 2019 will focus on counseling immigrant, refugee, and international students clients.

Throughout both semesters, assessments will be used to collect data on the efficacy of the program and the results will be presented to the University at the Annual Assessment Fair.

Faculty Congratulations!

Best wishes!

UNC's Dr. Brian Johnson recently brought his insight to the Kavanaugh debate. Dr. Brian Johnson was quoted in USA Today and Denver 7News, explaining that predatory behaviors are not normal behaviors, regardless of age, and to normalize sexual aggression is dangerous. Additionally, 9News recently discussed Dr. Johnson's tips to identifying warning signs of abuse or potential violence in those around you.
