

Beacons of Light
in a Sea of Dreams:
Celebrating the Achievements and Potential of Our Organization

Becky Carlson and Anna Witter-Merithew

"If you would understand anything, observe its beginning and its development."

Aristotle

“Whoever wishes to contribute to the future must consult the past; for human events ever resemble those of preceding times.”

Machiavelli-Renaissance Philosopher

3

“Insight refers to that depth of understanding that comes from setting experiences – yours and mine...new and old – side by side, learning by letting them speak to one another.”

Mary Catherine Bateson, Peripheral Visions, 1994

"We are in a long-distance race...we are writing a story, not a sentence...and therefore, we must have a long-term view."

Gene Rancone, Pastor

"...your purpose is to establish an organization of interpreter trainers so that this and future conferences will provide opportunities for your professional growth. DO NOT stop there - move on to the next level. Self-interest can never maintain motivation for long UNLESS it is also under girded by a larger goal of 'being for others'."

Jean Audrey Powers
1979 CIT Keynote Speaker

Preamble to the CIT Mission Statement

The CIT recognizes the minority status of D/deaf people and the long history of linguistic and cultural oppression that they have endured. We, therefore, publicly proclaim our respect and support for D/deaf people's right to self-determination and true communication access.- CIT, 1990

Members of the Organizational Committee

- Dan Burch, SW
- Becky Carlson, Midwest
- Mel Carter, East Coast

Establish an organizational infrastructure to...

- Develop professional growth opportunities for interpreter teachers
- Create IPP accreditation
- Create a resource list of materials
- Function as a liaison with other disciplines which interact with interpreter preparation
- Facilitate political awareness for advocacy purposes
- Engage in grant writing for program funding
- Provide a central location for job opportunity information for interpreter teachers

Final Action of Teacher Certification Work Group:

- Create accreditation of programs, not certification of teachers
- Generate a list of research areas
  - English/ASL issues
  - Task Analysis of Interpreting Process
  - Predictors of successful interpreters
- Advocate for a program to prepare interpreter teachers

24

“What appears to be repetition is often a return at the next level of a spiral.”

Mary Catherine Bateson, Peripheral Visions, 1994

25

“Accreditation initiatives that result in quality of service improvements always require additional resource investment up front. The total amount of additional resources needed and potential funding sources for a national accreditation and quality improvement initiative should be determined at the beginning of the design phase of an accreditation effort.”

Michael Heerey & Edgar Necochea, An Overview of Accreditation and Certification Models, 2002

26

“Reaching consensus on the design of the model to be implemented, on the standards for accreditation, and on the processes to be followed is usually a time-consuming and difficult task. This task can be greatly facilitated, however, if there is broad stakeholder involvement, consensus, and clarity on the purposes and structure of the accreditation effort early on in the process.”

Michael Heerey and Edgar Necochea, An Overview of Accreditation and Certification Models, 2002

27

“Lessons too complex to grasp in a single occurrence spiral past again and again, small examples gradually revealing greater and greater implications.”

Etienne Wenger, Communities of Practice, 1998

28

“Leadership is stewardship versus ownership.
Leaders leave behind them assets and a legacy.”

Max DePree, Leadership is an Art, 1998

"The greatest achievement of the human spirit is to live up to one's opportunities, and to make the most of one's resources."

Vauvenargues - French Moralist

31

Collegiality is the relationship between colleagues. Colleagues are those explicitly united in a common purpose and respecting each other's abilities to work toward that purpose. Thus, the word collegiality connotes respect for each other's commitment to the common purpose and the ability to work toward it in an open and cooperative manner."

32

"This is the beginning of a very important history. There are two main reasons why we gathered together here. The first is that we see an urgent and growing need to organize interpreter trainers from all over the United States. Secondly, we see a need to have some kind of standards and structure for interpreter training programs that have typically operated in isolation. A major tribute to you all for your very active participation and giving of yourselves during the conference."

Alan Hurwitz, CIT Closing Address, 1979

33

"Every institution needs community storytellers. The penalty for failing to listen is to lose one's history, one's historical context, one's binding values."

34

"It is only with the heart that one can see rightly - what is essential is invisible to the eye."

*Antoine de Saint-Exupery,
The Little Prince*

35

"We cannot become what we need to by remaining what we are."

Max DePree, Leadership is an Art, 1998

36

Share your own stories
by asking each other:

“How did you get here?
Who inspired you?
How are you making a difference?”

37

“In vital organizations there is a common bond of interdependence, recognition of quality achievements, mutual interest in each other, interlocking contributions, and simple joy in the opportunity to pursue the collective potential.”

Max DePree, Leadership is an Art, 1998

38

“Inspiration can strike like a bolt of lightning out of a clear blue sky. You have to be open and receptive to attract the bolt.”

Norman Rockwell

39

“Yes, the message we send is frank: that we are living and working in a non-monolingual, non-monocultural context; that we move between the languages and cultures with respect for those languages and cultures and for each other; and that we, as an organization, support and encourage the greater use of ASL.”

Risa Shaw, Sept. 1997, CIT NEWS

40

“When we look back and compare the past with what is happening today, we see a much greater supply of interpreters. The question is, however, do we have qualified interpreters today? Unfortunately, we still see a critical shortage of qualified interpreters.”

Alan Hurwitz,
CIT Closing Address, 1979

41

“Only a group of people who share a body of knowledge and continually learn together can stay vital and viable.”

Etienne Wenger, Communities of Practice, 1998

42

“Any organization that strives to capture its full potential and its identified responsibilities, must commit its energy and talent towards the common good of all of its stakeholders.”

Jane Watkins & Bernard Mohr, Appreciative Inquiry, 2001

43

“Momentum is vital to an organization. It is the feeling among a group of people that their lives and work are intertwined and moving towards a recognizable and legitimate goal, that what they accomplish together matters and makes a real difference.”

Ask yourself this...

- What models of successful interpreter preparation exist that we want to replicate?
- How do we achieve authentic collaboration between ASL and interpreter teachers?
- What constitutes competent interpreting practice?
- What do our graduate placement statistics tell us about our program effectiveness?

45

Ask yourself this...

- What does stakeholder feedback tell us about our program effectiveness?
- What is the role of the marketplace in determining program outcomes?
- How long does it take to prepare a competent practitioner?
- What distinguishes associates, baccalaureate, and graduate interpreter education? What distinguishes the competence of graduates from each?

46

"Men and women confronting growth and change are never fully prepared for the demands of the moment, but they are strengthened to meet uncertainty if they claim a habit of reflection and a history of improvisation."

Mary Catherine Bateson, Peripheral Visions, 1994
