

CETL GRADUATE STUDENT LEARNING COMMUNITY

Build community with fellow graduate students while learning about research-based pedagogical strategies that improve teaching and learning.

PARTICIPANTS WILL...

- Identify foundational concepts related to pedagogical content knowledge.
- Make decisions about best practices for teaching in their own classroom.
- Identify the interaction between teaching and learning.
- Feel confident in applying effective teaching and learning strategies in their classroom.
- Evaluate best practices for teaching through reflection.

MEETINGS

2X PER MONTH

Mondays @ 11:00-12:30pm

- Read before each meeting
- Discussions during meetings
- Reflection after each meeting
- Total = approx. 7 hrs per month

- Research on teaching and learning in higher education
- 7 Principles of Learning
- Backward Design and Alignment
- Educational Assessment
- Inclusive Classrooms
- Online Teaching
- Developing a Teaching Philosophy

TOPICS

APPLY TO PARTICIPATE

If you are thinking about a career in academia and want to build a community of grad students, this is for you.

Email cetl@unco.edu or audrey.tocco@unco.edu with questions!