UNIVERSITY OF NORTHERN COLORADO

Reaching New Heights

During the course of the last year, we achieved some monumental milestones fueled by your philanthropy.

We welcomed a new president and successfully completed the university's first ever comprehensive campaign. We established dozens of new scholarships for students, created new opportunities for research and opened a centralized hub for student opportunity and success within the Campus Commons.

Your support, combined with the generosity of others, shattered our expectations and made our first ever comprehensive campaign an astounding success. It was a collective effort that is already helping us reach new heights.

These accomplishments position UNC for continued growth and years of future achievement. Each one reaffirms our commitment to students and their success.

Enclosed in this report is a reflection of the journey we've made together in the last year. The moments you've created, the lives you've touched and the new heights we have reached as a result.

Your gifts are transforming lives, shaping the world, and making great things happen. You are champions for the greater good, and we are pleased to show you just a few of the ways that your support has influenced our journey.

There aren't enough words to properly thank you. Your support has an immeasurable influence on our entire community. Now, I invite you to read more about this journey and the milestones that have been made possible by your philanthropy.

“Those people all gave, and they were excited to see the fruits of what they shared with other human beings. UNC reciprocated with an event that was on par with their passion for giving. I think anytime that you can associate with people who give because it’s the right thing to do it’s enjoyable.”

–John Haefeli ‘86

“We set a goal to raise $45 million in support of student scholarships, faculty, research, programs, and the Campus Commons. You smashed that goal out of the park and gave 20% more by the time we finished the campaign. Thank you for believing in our mission, in our students and those who may become future students.”

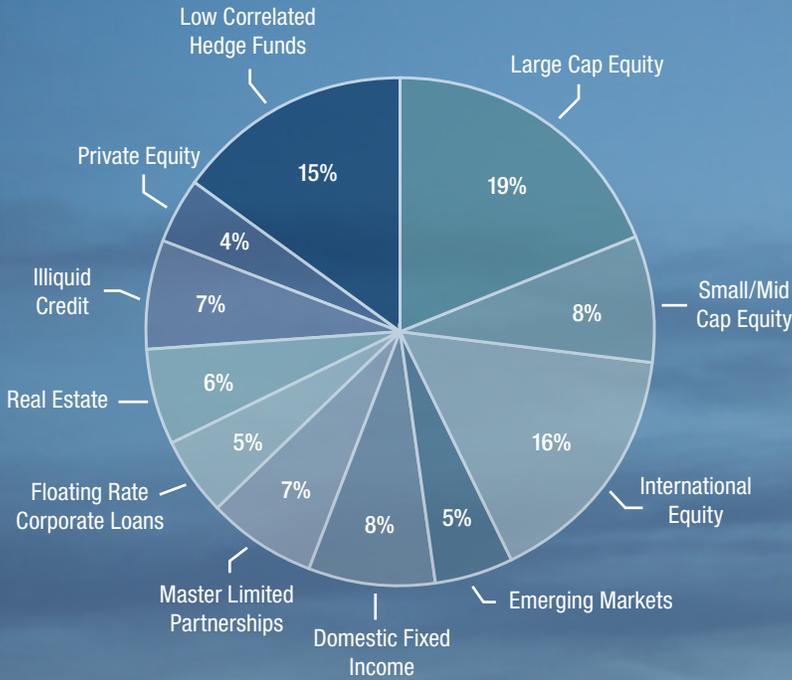

–Andy Feinstein, President
