

Rights and Responsibilities of Students Requesting Disability Services at the University of Northern Colorado

Students with disabilities at UNC have the right to:

- Equal access to courses, programs, services, activities and facilities offered through the university.
- Equal opportunity to receive appropriate and timely accommodations during their entire academic career at UNC, unless accommodations are offered as temporary (for one semester at minimum).
- Appropriate confidentiality of all information regarding their disabilities and to choose to whom information about their disabilities will be disclosed, except disclosure that are required or permitted by law.

Students with disabilities at UNC have the responsibility to:

- Document (from an appropriate professional) how the disability limits their participation in courses, activities, programs, services, jobs and facilities. Students granted temporary accommodations must meet with a DSS staff member to discuss accommodations and service eligibility for future semesters. Accommodations that are requested must be supported by current documentation. Additionally, revisions to your original accommodation letter may require additional documentation.
- Identify themselves as an individual with a disability when seeking accommodations from faculty by providing them with a copy of their accommodation letter each semester.
- If any accommodation related issue arises, you agree to seek information, and assistance from DSS within a reasonable amount of time.
- Follow policies and procedures for obtaining reasonable accommodations and services as set forth by Disability Support Services.

I understand my rights and responsibilities and understand that failure to follow these may delay my ability to receive accommodations. I am aware of DSS policies and procedures.
