

Graduate Assistantships

The Department of Sociology offers a limited number of graduate assistantships to students who have been admitted to the Graduate Program. Most assistantships pay a 4-month stipend (~$3100) for in-state students in addition to a 50% tuition waiver and are awarded based on qualifications. The Social Research Lab Assistantship is for the full academic year with an 8-month stipend. Out-of-state assistantships are available in some cases. Graduate assistants work closely with professors in teaching and/or research activity and are appointed on a semester-by-semester basis. Students seeking assistantships must submit a formal application for each semester.

Assistantship Obligations

Graduate assistantships provide the opportunity for students to work with faculty members. Graduate students receiving departmental support are expected to actively engage in departmental research and/or perform services assisting professors' instruction. Assistantships require that the student be enrolled 6-9 credit hours per semester. Audited courses do not count toward assistantship credit hour levels. Each semester (Fall and Spring), all half-time assistants are expected to be available and perform services related to teaching and/or research for an average of 9 hours per week.

Sociology Graduate Assistantship Application

Assistantship funding availability depends on many factors. The tuition and partial fee waiver associated with your assistantship is a student financial resource. As such, an adjustment or reduction may be necessary in other financial aid (e.g., loans or scholarships) should you exceed your maximum eligibility. A student may not hold a graduate assistantship while utilizing employee/dependent tuition waivers. A student must maintain good academic standing at UNC with a minimum of a 3.0 GPA.

Applying for a sociology assistantship acknowledges you have read the above and are currently eligible to apply for an assistantship position.
