

SOCIOLOGY DEPARTMENT
Faculty Application for a Graduate Assistant

The Sociology Department provides graduate assistants to faculty members on a competitive basis. The number of graduate assistants available each semester depends on decisions made at the graduate school. Priority is given in the following order: preparing external grant applications, preparing internal grant applications, research projects, assistance with classes.

Faculty Name Kyle Nelson

Proposed Start Date Jan 2022
2022

Anticipated Completion Date May

Project Title

Graduate Research Assistant, Introductory textbook preparation

Overview of Tasks/Expectations

Dr. Nelson and other faculty members are preparing an interactive e-textbook with Great River Learning for introductory-level sociology courses. The graduate research assistant will help collect background data and resources, create activities connected to the text, and help organize and copyedit the project.

Qualifications

B.A. required. Ideally, candidates will have strong literature review and writing skills, and an interest in sociology pedagogy.

Professional Outcomes

Students will hone valuable social science research and writing skills as well as perspectives on teaching and communicating sociology at the introductory level.

Faculty Signature Kyle Anne Nelson Date. 10/7/22