

Position Title: Information Literacy Librarian, Assistant Professor of University Libraries

Working Title: Information Literacy Librarian

Job Summary/Basic Function:

The Libraries at the University of Northern Colorado (UNC) [unco.edu/library] seeks a creative, enthusiastic individual for the position of Information Literacy Librarian and Assistant Professor of University Libraries, position number F99996. This is a contract-renewable position that reports to the Head of Information Literacy & Undergraduate Support.

Information Literacy Librarians are part of the highly collaborative Information Literacy and Undergraduate Support department. They support students from a variety of diverse backgrounds and are committed to facilitating dynamic, learner-centered experiences for all students. The successful candidate is responsible for teaching face-to-face and online as part of a well-established credit-bearing information literacy program. In addition to teaching credit courses, Information Literacy Librarians develop and deliver one-time, course-integrated instruction sessions to undergraduate students using innovative, active-learning techniques. The individual in this position will engage students by creating web guides, tutorials, and digital learning objects. The individual will also participate in assessment to support the continuous improvement of teaching and learning and to demonstrate the Libraries' impact on student learning to stakeholders.

Information Literacy Librarians maintain relationships with numerous programs on campus, including the Center for Human Enrichment, the UNC Honor's Program, and the Center for International Education. The successful candidate will contribute to various outreach activities to cultivate campus and community partnerships. Specifically, the candidate will serve as liaison to the Center for Human Enrichment, the UNC TRIO program that supports UNC's first generation students.

This position offers opportunities for innovation and professional growth in areas that include curriculum development, classroom assessment, liaison activities, professional development, and special programming. The successful candidate must have strong interpersonal skills and be able to communicate effectively, work collaboratively, and prioritize work assignments within a vibrant and stimulating environment.

Additional information about the Information Literacy and Undergraduate Support Department can be found at: <http://www.unco.edu/library/services/instruction/>

Minimum Qualifications:

Earned master's degree from an ALA-accredited library school or program by start date.
Experience teaching in an academic library or higher education setting.
Knowledge of techniques for evaluating/assessing student learning in the classroom.

Preferred Qualifications:

Experience teaching or developing credit-bearing courses in any discipline.

Experience using active, collaborative, or other innovative techniques to teach information literacy.

Experience working with diverse populations, especially first generation students.

Experience implementing or facilitating outreach activities.

Experience with creating digital learning objects or tutorials

Closing Date: Open until filled*Application Materials, Contact, and Deadline:

Screening of applications will begin on January 30, 2017. Applications will be accepted until the position is filled. Applicants must complete an online application form and attach a letter of application, highlighting suitability for the position, and curriculum vitae, including names of three references with their mail and email addresses, and telephone numbers.

Minimum salary: $52,000

Preferred start date: May 1, 2017 (negotiable)

For questions contact Helen Reed, Dean of University Libraries, helen.reed@unco.edu.

Apply at: <http://careers.unco.edu/postings/1433>