15 things all graduate students should know about UNC Libraries

A Canvas Module
for University of Northern Colorado Graduate Courses

Module Description

15 Things All Graduate Students Should Know about UNC Libraries is a Canvas module that any UNC faculty member can import into their Canvas course. The content provides graduate students – whether returning to coursework after years in the workforce or coming fresh from their last degree – with valuable knowledge about the Universities Libraries people, content, services, and tools. This tutorial is for all UNC graduate students whether they are in an online-only program or in face-to-face courses, no matter their discipline. While the priority learning outcome for this module is to connect students with their program librarian, this tutorial advises students on everything from literature databases to methodological resources provided by the UNC Libraries.

Questions?

Please contact Stephanie Wiegand with any questions about this Canvas module.

Stephanie Wiegand
Online Learning Librarian
stephanie.wiegand@unco.edu
(970) 351-1534
Michener Library
Office 109

Module Overview

Begin Here
#1 Your Librarian
#2 24/7 Research Recommendations by Discipline
#3 Articles, Books & So Much More
#4 Tools for Identifying Content
#5 Navigating the Libraries Online Portal
#6 Consultations beyond Literature Reviews
#7 SAGE Research Methods
#8 Data Sources
#9 Citation and Formatting Tools
#10 Your Dissertation, Thesis, or Scholarly Project
#11 Online Video Assistance
#12 Dissertation Prep & Writing Intensives
#13 for Online Only/Distance Students
#14 for GAs & TAs
#15 Spaces
The End...For Now

Importing Module into Your Canvas Course

1. Login to Canvas
2. Select Commons from the left sidebar menu
3. Search for 15 things unco
4. Select 15 Things All Graduate Students Should Know about the UNC Libraries
5. On the right, choose "Import/Download" and choose courses
6. Click "Import into Course"