SCIENCES

Natural and Health Sciences at UNC

Immerse yourself in the science of helping others and developing new expertise. UNC offers the benefits of small class sizes, with big opportunities to make a difference in the world.

We offer:

- Small classes, big opportunities — Benefit from an 17:1 student-to-faculty ratio, with opportunities for research and hands-on experience as an undergraduate.
- Community engagement — You'll learn through clinical experience and make a difference to the community in multiple settings, such as health fairs, the UNC Cancer Rehabilitation Institute and our Audiology Clinic.
- Professional accreditation — Study in professionally certified programs, with award-winning professors in audiology and teaching and many others.
- Residential Learning Communities — Live and learn with students studying in your program.
- A global campus — Our students make a difference locally and globally with hands-on experiences that aren't limited by borders. We partner with more than 330 schools across Europe and Asia for study abroad experiences.
- Diverse fields — From chemistry to tourism and hospitality to brewing science, we offer a diverse set of programs so you can customize your education.
