

Petition to Late Add A Course

According to the State of Colorado enrollment reporting guidelines and University policy, a student is not permitted to add courses to his/her schedule after the published deadline. Courses added after the census date do not receive funding from the State of Colorado.

A course late add will only be approved when there were extenuating circumstances beyond the student's control that kept the student from adhering to the published deadline. Student lack of knowledge of the published deadlines does not warrant an appeal.

In order to submit an appeal:

- Student must have been attending on or before the drop deadline to be considered.
- Student must include a written statement describing the circumstances that kept the student from adhering to the deadline. Petitions submitted without a reason will be denied.
- All required signatures must be obtained.
- If the student has financial aid, the student is responsible to contact financial aid to understand how this will affect their aid.
- If approved, additional tuition and fees may apply.

Note: In order to use the COF stipend, students must be registered for a course before the course census date. There may, however, be legitimate administrative reasons that may allow COF eligibility. We will adhere to the Colorado Department of Higher Education College Opportunity Fund Guidelines, Revised October 2011.

Final approval will be made in the Office of the Registrar
